

JAPANESE NAVY IS NOW IN CONTROL EAST OF SINGAPORE

Extent of Control is Graphically Described by Knickerbocker

Writer Passes Over 150 Japanese Warships and Transports in 30-Mile Chain

(Note: The extent to which the Imperial Navy of Japan controls the entire Orient east of Singapore is graphically described by H. R. Knickerbocker, the noted foreign correspondent of International News Service, in the following article, fourth of a series of 12. Knickerbocker has just returned to Paris after months spent in covering the Sino-Japanese conflict and a 12,500 mile trip across Asia and Europe undertaken to gauge the menace to America which lies in "The Yellow Typhoon and Red Storm Warnings.")

By H. R. Knickerbocker

PARIS, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Japan's Navy already effectively controls the entire east of Singapore.

As we sailed out of Shanghai in the French steamer Jean Laborde bound for Kobe, we passed not less than 150 Japanese warships and transports lying in a chain thirty miles long from His Imperial Majesty's ship Idzumo anchored in the heart of Shanghai to a monster aircraft carrier lying in the dim distance off the mouth of the Yangtze.

Looking for the last time at the Idzumo I remembered the jocular amiability of Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa when he received us on board and how during our interview as he expressed utmost good will toward us all there returned from his flight and was swung on board one of the formidable fleet of naval war planes which had expressed themselves in quite other terms with machine-guns to both America and Britain.

All these war craft belonged to Admiral Hasegawa. They were merely Japan's third fleet. Their home base in Japan was hardly 200 miles away.

From a military viewpoint Hong Kong does not count because the British know they could not hold it.

Japanese sea-power is the reason why the British have not strengthened their army in Shanghai. Back in 1927 when the Chinese were running amok the British alone had 25,000 troops in the International Settlement. Today they have 2,500, because at the beginning of this Far Eastern conflict the British made up their minds they could not defend Shanghai in a real war with Japan.

China's lack of sea power effectively precludes her ever from winning a conclusive victory against Japan no matter what were to happen on land. Without sea power she never could invade or conquer her enemy. It helps to understand this war to remember that in the Sino-Japanese war of 1894 the Chinese had a bigger and better navy which should have been able to whip the infant Japanese war fleet.

But the old Empress had taken all the money meant for guns and ammunition and spent it on her summer palace.

Today Japan's navy makes all foreigners accept her as the police agent of the Far East. We were immediately warned by our French officers to take no photographs of the Japanese war vessels. Hung in prominent positions throughout the ship were outline maps of Japan with huge circles drawn around a score of places marked: "War zones. Forbidden to photograph or use binoculars."

Nevertheless as we passed down the Whangpoo I used by binoculars to look over the melancholy ruins of what had been a flourishing part of Shanghai—now grim rows of gutted factories, warehouses, homes and schools. The schools particularly are a reminder of what the Japanese intend to do to China.

There off at the left rose the chimneys and blackened walls of what had been the German-Chinese University. For some odd reason the Japanese had shown it to us shortly after they burned it down just as they showed us the municipal center of greater Shanghai while it was still burning.

As I stood in a rubble of priceless art treasures on the floor of the shattered Shanghai museum and later in many minor schools and institutions of learning similarly destroyed I wondered if there were not some system being followed whereby any other building may escape by chance, but no school by any chance, where the Japanese army has been in China.

As one Chinese noted for his philosophical essays expressed it to me: "The Japanese are deliberately wiping out our schools because they want to turn us into a nation of coolies or literal slaves. Not even the Mongols did that."

Many Eligible for Benefits Have Not Yet Applied

Many of those who are eligible for social security have not as yet applied and are thus being deprived of what rightfully belongs to them, according to L. L. Kretzlin, manager, Social Security Board, with offices at Allentown. The Allentown office has charge of Lehigh, Northampton and Bucks counties, and the actuaries claim that only about one-third of those entitled to benefits have made application.

"More claims were paid in Pennsylvania than in any other State in the Union," says Mr. Kretzlin.

Employers are urged to notify their employees how to proceed when they become 65. The easiest and best way is for the employees to go to the nearest post office and make application. Information may also be obtained by writing to Allentown.

Wage earners who have become 65 since January 1, 1937, are entitled to the benefits. Only one-fourth of those in Bucks county who are eligible to the benefits have applied.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY

The primary election will be early this year on May 17, which means that the registration and primary will be close together with activity starting in February, according to Earl Brown, clerk in the office of the Bucks County Commissioners.

Rules and regulations concerning registration will be sent out to the various districts by Mr. Brown shortly. The outline will contain the following information:

Who may register? Every person living in a borough, town or township who shall possess all the qualifications of a voter.

What are the qualifications? First, have been a citizen of the United States at least one month; second, resided in the State one year or 6 months if—native born or previously qualified elector—moved and returned; third, resided in election district when they offer to vote at least 2 months immediately preceding the election.

When may they register? On any business day during business hours except 30 days prior to any election, 30 days after an election and 5 days after any primary.

Where may they register? At the office of the Registration Commission.

Preservation of trees in Newtown, especially 17 dogwoods which were planted recently on Liberty street, has become one of the objectives of the Newtown Parent-Teacher Association.

During the very largely attended meeting of the association held in the high school auditorium it was pointed out that some of the children unintentionally have been damaging trees and other property in the borough. The association has decided to attempt to discourage this practice among the children. It was pointed out that in the Spring some of the children have been removing flowers, running over grass plots and marking buildings with chalk. It was stated that persons living on Liberty street have gone to much trouble to plant the dogwood trees and the association hopes that these will not be damaged by the children.

Liberals and conservatives deadlocked Doylestown Borough Council twice as the votes occurred on two rather important issues, making it necessary to further discuss both issues at length before a final passing vote was recorded.

Two of the important questions at issue were the reappointment of William Hendricks as a member of the Doylestown police force for school traffic and office duty, and the appointment of a building inspector for the town under the new building code. By the time both issues had been disposed of, Council had been in session nearly three hours.

About 100 persons on Sunday afternoon attended a meeting in Newtown Friends' meeting house under the auspices of the committee of Ministers and Counselors for the purpose of considering questions pertaining to church and meeting attendance. The main topic was "Why attend meetings?"

WPA GRANT OF $36,281.89 FOR ATHLETIC FIELD

Additional Money Appropriated For the Work at Morrisville School

TOTAL IS NOW $58,085.89

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 20.—The United States Government will spend a total of $58,085.89 for the athletic field being built at the Capitol View School here. A second WPA allowance of $36,281.89 has just been made and a previous grant was $21,804.

Of the amount granted in the supplemental allowance, $23,358.25 will be for labor. This additional amount, it is believed will pay for all work necessary to complete the field.

Plans for building a grandstand and the laying of curbs, gutters and sidewalks around the field are now being made and it is expected to apply for WPA funds for this work. The board has not yet decided whether to build the grandstand out of concrete, lumber or steel, but it was announced that it is the intention of the directors to have a stand erected which will be sturdy and safe.

The plans for the fence around the field are well under way and the subscriptions are being received by the committee in charge of that campaign.

At the meeting of the board the following committee chairmen were announced: Finance, Leonard Perry; building and grounds, William W. Neill; supplies, Joseph Heenan; athletic and health, Paul Taylor; publicity, Paul Taylor; teachers and courses, Alvin R. Pratt; operation and maintenance, J. Leslie White.

Friends' meetings, opened the question. He referred to the almost universal practice of the forefathers, who, with their entire families, attended places of religious worship regularly. He spoke also of the present lack of interest in church and religious affairs in the majority of families.

"Modern living," he said, "offers many more opportunities for entertainment, amusement and instruction and these keep many persons from church attendance. However, none of them furnishes the things needed for spiritual development that may be found in regular church attendance."

Frederick McCord, Moylan, clerk of the yearly meeting's committee of Ministry and Counsel, spoke on the same subject. "Regular attendance," he said, "is necessary to develop a real interest in religion and to receive benefits which foster spiritual growth." Several others took part in the discussion. Members were present from Wrightstown, Doolington, Langhorne, Buckingham, Yardley, Philadelphia and New Jersey. Luncheon was served prior to the conference.

Thrilled with their visit to Porto Rico, four County Seat matrons, Mrs. J. Harry Hoffman, Mrs. George E. Willard, Mrs. Thomas Lyons and Mrs. Samuel R. Pearce, returned to their homes, here, Monday, after making a 17-day cruise to the colorful islands.

Two former Bucks county teachers, the Misses Virginia and Mary Pearce, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Pearce, this place, who are now teaching in Porto Rico, were hostesses to their mother and three other members of the party. "The girls are well, happy and like their work," Mrs. Pearce said.

TREVOSE FLORAL GROUP HEARS INTERESTING TALK

Miss Anne B. Wertsner Gives Illustrated Talk Which Is Very Much Enjoyed

WELL ATTENDED

TREVOSE, Jan. 20.—Addressing members of the Trevose Horticultural Society at a meeting held in the community house, Miss Anne B. Wertsner, Ambler, gave an interesting illustrated address on garden planting. Her colored slides showed many local and English gardens.

Commenting upon the arrangement of the flower garden, Miss Wertsner said the flower lover should choose some outstanding feature in the garden and this may include a tree, wall, bird bath or a small body of water. The plants, it was said, should be arranged around the outstanding feature.

Continuing, Miss Wertsner said: "If you are planning to have a path through your garden, have it terminate with some interesting feature." She also recommended the use of tall plants for the foreground in order to provide a more broken aspect in the garden. Miss Wertsner also urged a greater use of phlox and told of some new varieties which will not fade in the sun. Suggestion was made also that the iris be planted in thin lines rather than in clumps.

The next meeting of the society will take place on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15th.

In the absence of the president, Garrett V. Clark, who is spending some time in Florida, the business session was conducted by Robert B. McKenney, Newtown. Reporting for the roadside planting committee, Mr. McKenney stated that recently 15 dogwood trees had been planted on one of the streets in Newtown.

Report was made during the business session that five new members had been gained since the last meeting.

Parents Satisfied With Daughter

Sunbury, Jan. 20.—"We're satisfied!" With that comment today, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Sanders, central figures in Pennsylvania's alleged baby mix-up, appeared to have settled the strange case finally.

The 29-year-old mother of five children tucked her baby girl snugly beneath blankets after a hearing in Shamokin State Hospital and returned to her modest Irish Valley home to care for the child as her own.

Eight affidavits of nurses produced at the hearing, and other witnesses, convinced the parents the child given Mrs. Sanders on her departure from the hospital was her own. The parents had contended their baby was a boy and that there was a mix-up at the hospital.

The raids were carried out by small squadrons of Italian-made bombing planes that swept to the mainland from the insurgent airbase at Majorca Islands, in the Balearics, to rain tons of missiles upon Barcelona, seat of the Spanish government, popular Valencia and other eastern seaport communities.

TRAILERS ARE BUILT HERE FOR EXPLORER TO BELGIAN CONGO

Two Wonderfully Equipped Houses On Wheels To Be Used by Commander Gatti

HAVE BATH-TUB IN ONE

To Be Equipped With Every Modern Convenience, It Is Said

With the Belgian Congo of Central Africa as their ultimate destination, two long trailers are taking shape at the plant of Fleetwheels-Coates Trailer Corporation, here.

Contracted for by Commander Gatti, noted explorer, lecturer and writer, the pair of trailers, which are being equipped with the latest in electrical appliances, will serve as homes for Commander Gatti and Mrs. Gatti on the Tenth Gatti Expedition to the Belgian Congo.

Designed by Count Alexis deSakhnoffsky, noted designer now located in Philadelphia, the trailers when completed by the middle of March, will prove to be most modern in appearance and design, equipped with every possible convenience for comfort of the explorers, and will be attractively finished on both the interior and exterior.

One of the trailers is to be for dining purposes, the kitchen being in this unit of the motorized caravan; while the second trailer will provide sleeping quarters, living-room and bath for Commander and Mrs. Gatti.

Electrified screens to electrocute insects, and thus free the travelers from such pests, are called for in the contract; and a bath-tub is included in the bath room. Three electric light "plants" are part of the equipment of the caravan, and the electrical pieces will include refrigerator, stove, etc., even electric sleeping blankets.

The noted lecturer, Commander Gatti, is well-known for his writings, his articles appearing in numerous magazines from time to time. This resident of 66 Park avenue, New York City, is making this journey for the purpose of securing motion pictures and still pictures in the Belgian Congo, and also for the purpose of promoting travel by trailer in that territory, it being felt that only trailers offer comfortable travel in that country. There are said to be between 4,000 and 5,000 miles of improved road-ways in that section, the area being approximately one-third of that covered by the United States.

Five motor trucks will be included in the caravan, the two trailers being pulled by trucks. The party will include chauffeurs for the several vehicles, two cameramen and approximately 100 natives. The trucks will be provided by the Belgian government. It is planned for the party to also have one other trailer for use of the cameramen. The contract for this has not been placed as yet, it is stated.

The two trailers now being constructed here, measure 27 feet in length, not including storage compartments at the rear. The trailers are being so constructed that when camp is made they can be placed side-by-side, with a "concertina" protecting a passageway between the two. Double walling is being used in the two vehicles now under construction at the local plant. The dual wheels are 20x7, with a wheel also placed at the center front for use when the trailer is "resting" in camp.

Commander Gatti, of Italian birth, is supervising the construction work, he paying frequent visits at the Fleetwheels-Coates plant on North Radcliffe street.

The explorer plans to sail for Belgium on March 25th, thence travelling to Africa, where he will be located from 12 to 15 months. The contract calls for completion of the trailers by March 15th.

BRAVE MR. EVANS

George Bernard Shaw made it plain some years ago that William Shakespeare would have written much better plays if George Bernard Shaw had been around to show him how to do it. Recently, Mr. Shaw brought this idea down to a concrete and compact suggestion—namely, that he, Mr. Shaw, improve Shakespeare's play, Cymbeline, by rewriting the third act for a London production.

Thus far, London dispatches do not report a spontaneous demand from lovers of Shakespeare that Mr. Shaw get busy and rewrite that third act. But there are no reports of angry protests against impious Shavian hands being laid on England's hallowed heritage from Avon. Toronto reports, however, a mild but decisive dissent from one of the more distinguished of contemporary Shakespearean actors.

Maurice Evans, English player, now touring Canada in Richard II, believes that Shakespeare had a distinct edge on Mr. Shaw as a playwright, despite the latter's contrary opinion. Mr. Evans expressed doubt, furthermore, that Mr. Shaw's plays would have the same vitality 300 years from now that Shakespeare's have today. After all, Mr. Evans pointed out, Mr. Shaw's plays "tend to be topical."

And that was that. Mr. Evans is a brave man. If he isn't careful, Mr. Shaw will rewrite Richard II, under his, Mr. Evans', very nose.

WONDERS OF MEDICINE

A surgeon has listed the seven miracles of modern medicine, rating them by the benefits they have bestowed upon suffering humanity. Some of the seven are obvious selections.

Anybody who has had a tooth pulled appreciates the blessed boon of anesthesia and the many who have submitted to more serious operations might not be alive to tell the tale without it. Equally apparent is the wonder of antiseptics for prevention of infection, a precautionary measure which it took the medical world a long time to learn. The lengthening of average human life, easily apparent in tables of vital statistics, is largely the achievement of the medicine men of the modern world.

Others of the seven wonders are not so apparent to the layman. Dr. Bowman C. Crowell, of Chicago, considers that immunity to disease through the use of vaccines is one of them. The knowledge of what food is fit to eat, and why, is another. More doubtful is the listing of the "correction of organic deficiency through administration of healthy organs from animals." Some modern doctors would not agree or would consider the case "unproven."

A seventh wonder of medicine is so obvious that many would be unable to name it. But very many benefit by it. It is a modern discovery that sunlight is death to germs and good medicine for men. Plain sunshine, or its electrical equivalent, is listed in the modern materia medica. No single drug is mentioned among the seven wonders of modern medicine, but old-fashioned sunshine is.

It's a kind provision of nature that makes an infant unable to talk. It might tell what it thinks of its parents.

Clothes make the man, though on occasion they may make him quite uncomfortable.

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Much of political significance to Pennsylvania has been taking place in Washington, D. C., in the past several weeks. Latest incident of interest, particularly in the light of the fireworks expected in the forthcoming May primaries for senatorial and gubernatorial nominations, was the visit of State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence to the nation's capital for the purpose of placing the names of Gov. George H. Earle and U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey before the State's Democratic Congressmen as possible candidates for the offices of Senator and Governor, respectively.

Although a poll of those in attendance showed the majority in support of the proposed ticket, the opinion was far from unanimous.

According to reports from Washington these developments resulted from a luncheon given by the Congressmen for Lawrence.

1. Earle was the choice of the delegation as Democratic candidate for the Senate seat now occupied by Republican James J. Davis.

Passersby may have wondered what the Congressmen were doing in the luncheon. The fact that Guffey, despite his repeated comments that "I am satisfied where I am" is being considered most seriously as the organization's gubernatorial candidate. Friends of Earle believe there is no doubt he will become candidate for the Senate. The fact that none of the Philadelphia members would express an opinion on the Guffey possibility after reportedly conferring with Matthew McCloskey, Philadelphia Democratic leader, led observers to consider more closely rumors of a rift between the Eastern and Western Pennsylvania Democratic leaders.

In the relief controversy they split openly, with Lawrence and Guffey favoring the dismissal of Karl de Schweinitz, and D. David Stern, Philadelphia publisher, and Albert Greenfield, another powerful Democrat in the Quaker City, advocating the relief head's retention.

Before the Congressional luncheon, the most important Pennsylvania political incident was the efforts of two likely gubernatorial candidates bidding almost simultaneously for the support of organized labor in 1938.

Over the same week-end within the past month both former Governor Gifford Pinchot and Guffey entertained for John L. Lewis, national head of the CIO and labor's recognized spokesman in Pennsylvania.

fire-fighters would do in an emergency about one of the fire plugs behind the State Capitol. The water outlet is nicely spotted inside a fence. The fence is only about three feet high and might provide a good practice hurdle for the flame-eaters.

Visitors to the rotunda of the Capitol, too, may have noticed an addition there. Smack beneath the crown of the vaulted rotunda dome, at the foot of the main stairs, the desk is being used for sale of tickets for a forthcoming Philadelphia symphony orchestra concert scheduled for Harrisburg.

The Great Game of Politics

all. His recent declaration against "all holding companies" was an instance.

IT SEEMS clear that Mr. Roosevelt did not realize the full implications of his remark, had not given consideration either to the impracticability of the idea or its effect. The suggestion, so far as can be learned, came to him from one of his more liberal friends. A planted question at the press conference gave the opportunity to talk and he talked. There is sound reason to believe that he was glad of the chance to make his declaration just ahead of the Lamont-Young-Lewis visit, because of the pleasing assurance it gave the "advanced thinkers" of his inner circle that he is "standing firm" and not about to be taken into camp by the "Bourbons," which dire possibility they press upon him every time he confers with more than one conservative at a time.

HOWEVER, the idea of abolishing all holding companies already has shrunk to negligible size. No one expects Mr. Roosevelt to make good on that press conference statement. He will present no such recommendation in his forthcoming "business reform" message. It is no part of the Richberg plan—it is no part of anybody's plan, and it could not be put through Congress if it were. The most expected from the President along this line is a recommendation to end bank holding companies, which is an old idea. There is no reason he cannot get favorable action on that because there are many men in Congress of a conservative tendency who were for it long before a holding company of any kind interested Mr. Roosevelt at all.

HOWEVER, that is vastly different from the thing he advocated at his press conference. There is in fact, so often a discrepancy between his follow-up and these press conference balloons that the less chattering of the correspondents are loath to expect and discount it, though, of course, this does not interfere with the first-day "story." Even when they think it may be phony, they are bound to write it, because anything that comes from the President must be treated seriously. In the conference with business men Mr. Roosevelt has not been as jolly as in his conferences with newspaper men. On the contrary, he has lectured the former upon their iniquities even while expressing a desire to aid them in every way possible. Business men who have been at the White House have complained later that Mr. Roosevelt's conversational proposals conflict. In one breath he assails monopoly and in the next asserts that what ails the automobile industry is too much competition, high-pressure salesmanship and too liberal installment credit. Then, as Mr. Jay Hayden, of the Detroit News, writes, "he proposes that the Government loan ninety per cent of the cost in order to induce people to buy houses on an even more liberal installment plan."

THAT Mr. Roosevelt is not clear in his mind which road to follow is new, generally accepted. The fact has been evidenced in many ways. He is urged in one direction by the business men and certain labor leaders who regard co-operation as vital, and propelled in the other by his radical friends, such as Mr. Robert Jackson, Mr. Thomas Corcoran and Mr. Leon Henderson, whose efforts are concentrated upon nullifying the effect of any conservative counsel. It is now expected the latter will prevail; that his message to Congress will be colored by their views on monopoly and the accompanying bill, being of their manufacture, will make co-operation exceedingly difficult.

ONE reason the young radicals generally prevail in this struggle to "point" the President, which has gone on intermittently for 1841—Britain seized Hong Kong from China.

1876—Josef Hofman, great pianist, was born.

1891—Mischa Elman, great violinist, was born.

1936—George V. died, and Edward VIII, the present Duke of Windsor, became Britain's King.

Some of them, like Mr. Jackson, are feverish with political ambitions which can only be realized through Roosevelt favor. Their disposition is to treat Mr. Roosevelt as having a corner on wisdom and virtue, and to hate his opponents openly and violently. Far more than the weight of their arguments, this gives them advantage over the more conservative counselors accounts for much of their Presidential influence.

Japanese Navy is Now in Control East of Singapore

Which helps to explain why many Chinese show a hatred of the Japanese which passes common sense and astounds a Westerner accustomed to regard the two races as closely related.

Unable at first to distinguish some Chinese from some Japanese a newcomer to China is shocked to hear educated Chinese exclaim:

"The Japanese are not human beings. They are not related to us in any way. They are hairy apes from the Malay jungles. They have never done anything but destroy. Their god is War. They have no culture of their own. All they have of civilization has been borrowed from us and their machines from the West."

To which the Japanese reply:

"You Chinese are degenerate millionfold remnants of a once great race. Yes, we admit you used to be great. You talk of our enslaving you but you are already enslaved to your war lords, your dirt and your sloth."

"We will teach you to be great once again under Japanese guidance. Without us you would long ago have been a colony of the Whites. Together we will drive out the Whites and reign Asia and incidentally teach you Chinese to take a bath."

General Neill Malcolm, chairman of the "Universities of China Commission" has collected authentic information showing that to Nov. 15, 1937 alone in the cities of Shanghai, Nan king, Paoting-Fu and Nanchang, three universities were completely destroyed and 14 damaged, while 53 high schools and 25 primary schools were destroyed or occupied with a property loss of ten million dollars. Fifty thousand students have been deprived of their educational opportunity.

Since that time the Japanese occupation of many more cities probably has doubled the destruction of China's schools. This is because the Japanese are concentrating on destruction in China of "anti-Japanese propaganda" and rightly believe the student class is most bitter against them.

So they intend physically to destroy the instruments of modern education which were rapidly changing the Chinese into a nation resolved to preserve its independence and become a power in the world.

As a weapon of a national policy this is just as defensible as the bombing of non-combatants to terrorize the population into submission. But Chinese worshippers of scholarship take it even harder than the killing of their people.

There were no Chinese on our boat but plenty of Japanese. We might as well have been in Japan. The conversation throughout our three-day voyage was guarded. Japanese sat intently near other passengers. Usually voluble Frenchmen dampened their voices, but confidentially each White man on board from American airplane salesmen and shipping men to French army officers talked of only one thing—"the coming war between the yellow and white races."

Is it really coming?

Lying inside the jetty at Kobe a row of submarines caught my attention. I felt I had committed an indiscretion even to look at them. "A dangerous thought," I reflected as I began to count them.

Suddenly a Japanese officer in uniform appeared at my side. I stopped counting submarines and began to count my fingers. Hissing politeness he asked me to come below.

"Oh Lord," I thought.

"Kind sir," said the little man, to my relief, "I only speak English here. Newspaper gentleman wants interview you about what you think Japanese army and Chinese war. I translate for you and him. All right?"

OX-DRAWN CARAVAN TREKS ACROSS PENNA. ALONG TRAIL OF NORTHWEST PIONEERS

Harrisburg. — Patient, slow-gaited oxen are today drawing a lumbering Conestoga wagon westward along Pennsylvania's busy highways.

Walking beside the old relic of pioneer transportation are nearly 40 men dressed in coonskin cap and fringed buckskin clothing, carrying long knife and Pennsylvania rifle, powder horn and tomahawk.

They are commemorating the 150th anniversary of the historic trek of New England settlers through this State to found Marietta, Ohio, first legal colony in the "Old Northwest Territory."

Not content merely to plod along in the wake of their predecessors, the members of today's caravan are presenting historical pageants in every town where they stop for the night.

Towns to be visited, and dates of arrival follow:

Easton, first Pennsylvania town, December 28; Allentown, December 29; Macungie, December 30; Kutztown, December 31; Reading, January 1 and 2; Womelsdorf, January 3; Lebanon, January 4; Hummelstown, January 5; Harrisburg, January 6; Carlisle, January 7; Shippensburg, January 8 and 9; Upper Strasburg, January 10; Burnt Cabins, January 11; Mountaintown, January 12; Everett, January 13; Mann's Choice, January 14; Top of Ridge, January 15 and 16; Somerset, January 17; Bottom of Laurel Hill, January 18; Mount Pleasant, January 19; and West Newton, January 20.

En route through Pennsylvania, the modern "pioneers" will revive memories of the hardships overcome by those who made the same journey 150 years before.

At Swatara creek, near Harrisburg, they will pass near the spot where the first settlers were forced to break the ice to ford the creek.

At the foot of Kittatinny mountain, west of Carlisle, they will see where the first settlers built sleds to cross the mountains after deep snows made their wagons useless.

Finally, at West Newton, on the Youghiohony, they will build a replica of the "Adventure Galley," which carried the pioneers of 1788 down the rivers to Marietta.

That ancient boat, largest to sail the Ohio up to that time, will be duplicated. Forty-eight feet long, 14 feet wide, the boat will require three months' labor to build. Then, accompanied by rafts and canoes, as long ago, the craft will carry the modern Argonauts to Marietta.

POWER WASHERS SAVE THE FAMILY BOTH ON CLOTHES AND ENERGY

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)

Clean fabrics and clothing are essential to the comfort and health of all members of the household. Power washers save both time and energy. The kind you buy depends upon the power available. Hand-operated machines, gasoline, or electric machines all have the same principle of forcing the soapy water through the clothes.

Although there may be more than a hundred different names attached to washing machines, practically every one will go into one of five types.

The "dolly," named from the mechanical device like a revolving three-legged stool, draws the clothes back and forth in the tub. The cylinder type has a perforated cylinder of wood or metal inside a tub. This cylinder revolves several times in one direction, then reverses.

A third type is the oscillating machine, a tub within an outer tank. Blades project from the side of the tub to help hold the clothes. Inverted funnel-shaped cups attached to the top of a central shaft form the vacuum cup type of machine. The shaft moves around and at the same time up and down.

The agitator machine is similar to the "dolly" type. The legs or blades, fastened to a central staff, stick up toward the top rather than down. Since machines vary in size, the homemaker may select a size to meet her needs. Small portable ones are ideal where space is limited and the home washing small. There is the medium-sized machine and the large machine for the large family wash.

Consider these points when you select a washing machine. Is the machine durable, rust-resisting, easy to clean, easy to move, and resistant to alkalies? Does it have a smooth, hard finish and no exposed screwheads which have a tendency to rust?

All moving parts of the machine should be enclosed, the motor protected from water and either grounded or insulated from metal framework. The electric cord should be rubber covered to keep it dry. A machine should be compact, light in weight, but rigid in construction to prevent vibration.

MARKET NEWS CHEERS BUYER
Offsetting the high cost of butter on the home budget is the welcome news that fresh eggs are more plentiful than usual and are low in price for this season. That applies to Grade A large and medium eggs and mixed browns.

Egg dishes for luncheon and breakfast are increasingly popular as a result. Grade B eggs, excellent for cooking purposes, are about ten cents cheaper than last year. Government specialists report that egg production during the Fall of 1937 was the largest in seven years.

The rise in butter is attributed partly to the higher price of milk. The quantity of butter received in market has been far less than normal.

The darkest days of high meat prices seem to be over. Slowly but steadily, meat prices have been declining. Government livestock specialists foresee an increasing supply of beef and it is expected that the quality will be high, since more feed is available for fattening stock.

Fresh pork cuts are a good value and pork is a cold weather food to remember, since it needs long, slow cooking. Other dishes may be cooked at the same time.

Nuts of most kinds have been very inexpensive this season, particularly pecans, walnuts and Italian chestnuts. In fact, the Southern crop of pecans is pronounced the largest in history and therefore the lowest in price.

HELPFUL HINTS

A state survey shows that children apparently do not reduce milk consumption until they are nearly sixteen. According to statistics, young people from six to sixteen years drink almost as much milk as children five years of age or less.

"Three secrets of wise buying," listed by a shopping advisor, are: "Read the labels, ask questions, demand labeled goods."

The nap on garments shiny from wear may be somewhat restored by sponging with a warm vinegar or ammonia solution made of one tablespoon of vinegar, or ammonia, to one quart of water.

Bayberry candles are made from a wax that forms the outside coating on the berries of the bayberry tree, which grows in various parts of the United States.

Freshly-pressed woolen garments should be hung on padded hangers to become thoroughly dry before they are worn.

To soften and clean leather on furniture, use a mixture of one part hot vinegar to two parts linseed oil. Apply with a cloth. Rub the leather dry and polish it with another clean, soft cloth.

When curtains will not hang straight, place small dress weights along the inside of the hems.

RECIPES You Will Want to Try!

Indian Somp

A hot breakfast cereal should be both nourishing and tasty. Boiled samp, an old Indian corn dish adopted by the Puritans, is an inexpensive, nutty-flavored, protein and mineral-rich dish, recommended by the New York State College of Home Economics.

One-half cup of samp; cold water; two and one-half cups of boiling water; one teaspoon salt.

Cover the samp with cold water and let it stand for five or six hours. Drain and put in the top of the double boiler. Add the boiling water and salt. Bring it to the boiling point, place over boiling water in the double boiler and let it steam for four or five hours, or cook it in a fireless cooker overnight. Serve with sugar and milk or cream. Prune juice cocktail, crisp buttered toast, milk for the children, coffee and Indian Somp is a breakfast menu suggested.

Codfish Balls

Four or five medium sized potatoes; one cup picked salt cod or one-half cup prepared salt cod; one tablespoon butter; pepper; one egg or two egg yolks.

Pare and slice potatoes and cook with picked cod in boiling water until potatoes are tender. Drain, mash and beat until smooth. Add butter, pepper and egg. Drop by tablespoonfuls into very hot shortening, 395 degrees F., and cook until light brown. Drain on soft paper. If mixture is too soft to hold together, one tablespoonful of regular shape are desired, add the flour, shape and dip in crumbs or flour before frying. Garnish with crisp bacon and slices of lemon.

Use of a pure vegetable shortening will yield a digestible croquette that is crisp on the outside and moist inside.

Sour Cream Griddle Cakes

One and one-half cups flour; one teaspoon soda; one cup sour cream; one teaspoon salt; two eggs, well beaten. (Makes 12 cakes.)

Sift dry ingredients together. Add the liquids and the well-beaten eggs. Mix thoroughly and try a test cake to judge consistency.

Lamb Stew With Cream

Two tablespoons pure shortening; two small onions; three pounds shoulder of lamb; salt and paprika; two cups tomato pulp; two tablespoons minced parsley; one cup thick sour cream.

Heat the shortening, add the onions, and costs very little.

cut fine and the meat rubbed with salt and paprika. Brown the meat and the onions, then add the tomato pulp and parsley. Cook the meat slowly for two hours, adding no water unless necessary. Just before serving, add the sour cream and blend it well with the sauce.

Plain Waffles

Three eggs; two and one-fourth cups flour; four teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon salt; one-half cup melted shortening; one and one-half cups milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients twice. Beat eggs, stir in melted shortening. Add milk, then dry ingredients. Beat until smooth and bake three to five minutes, depending on thickness. For fluffy waffles, beat egg whites separately and fold in last.

Rice Cream

One cup rice; 3 to 3½ cups hot milk; one teaspoon salt; one cup cream, whipped; one-half teaspoon vanilla; one cup drained fruit.

Add salt to milk. Steam rice in milk over boiling water 30 to 45 minutes, until tender. Cool. Add vanilla, fold in half of whipped cream, add fruit and pour into pudding dish. Chill and garnish with remaining whipped cream. Drained shredded pineapple is delicious with this.

Courier Classified Ads bring results and costs very little.

HOUSEHOLD WISDOM

If you find anchovy paste too salty, mix it with an equal part of softened butter, when making canapés or sandwiches. This paste also lends appetizing flavor to white sauce, but use only enough for flavor and omit salt in the sauce.

Brush molds from which jellied salads or desserts are to be turned carefully with olive oil or glycerin, so that the food will turn out without losing the design of the mold. The mold may be dipped briefly in lukewarm water to help the removal.

SCIARRA ADVANCES IN BOXING TOURNAMENT

Tally Sciarras advanced in the elimination tournament being held in Trenton, when he scored a technical knock-out over Arthur Watson, colored youth from Princeton. The referee stopped the bout after one minute and thirteen seconds of the second round had elapsed.

Another Bristol boy, Joseph Ferrara, lost the decision to Francis Bruno, Lambertville, in three rounds. Bruno is the defending featherweight champion and was extended to beat the Bristol boy.

Both Sciarras and Ferrara fought in the same class, 126 pounds.

NAME THOMAS HEAD OF SPORTS WRITERS' GROUP

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 20.—A. Russell Thomas, sports editor of the "Daily Intelligencer," and well known newspaper correspondent, has been elected president of the Philadelphia Suburban Sports Writers' Association for 1938, to succeed Herb Good, a member of the sports staff of the Philadelphia Record, who served last year.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting held at the West Chester Elks were as follows: Vice-president, Red McCarthy, Norristown Times-Herald; secretary, Dick Dean, sports editor Norristown Times-Herald; treasurer, Hugh (Butch) McDevitt, West Chester Daily Local News.

The board of governors elected at the annual meeting include Wilmer D. Cressman, editor in chief of the Norristown Times-Herald and founder of the three-year-old association; Hal Keating, Main Line Daily Times; Fred Wilson, Chester Times; Joe Ujohal, Phoenixville Republican; and Herbert Good, retiring president.

Figures DO Lie

By BURNLEY

When the official baseball averages for 1937 were released last month they provided plenty of laughs if nothing else. It only goes to show that old Sam Statistics can prove anything, even if it isn't so.

For instance—ask any fan, or even any expert, who was the best fielding outfielder in the American League last year, and the almost unanimous nomination will be Joe Di Maggio.

Now take a quick glance at the American League fielding averages, and you'll have a tough time even finding Di Maggio. More than twenty run-of-the-mine gardeners finished ahead of the Yanks' wonder boy in the statistical ratings, which shows that something is putrid in Scandinavia. It must be the averages, because it ain't Di Maggio.

Another gentle guffaw provided by the freakish figures came from the pitching averages.

Dizzy Dean, adjudged the prize fop of the year 1937 by a recent consensus, finished THIRD in the National League earned run averages. Diz had a tough time winning any games, but the figures say he was the third best flinger in the loop, so there. So what?

Thomas announced that it would be his object to have at least one member of every newspaper staff in the four-county territory (Montgomery, Chester, Delaware and Bucks) become affiliated with the association in 1938.

Plans were discussed for the second annual independent basketball championship to be sponsored by the scribes in the four county district. The preliminary games will start March 14 and the finals will be the week of April 4. Entries can be mailed any time to the sports editor of any local newspapers.

The annual banquet of the association which last year attracted 375 fans will be held in April or May with the place to be announced later. Financial reports submitted show the association in excellent condition.

U. S. FOOD SALES

CHICAGO, Ill.—(INS)—In 1937, food sales in the United States will total $10,692,400,000, according to Clarence Francis, president of General Foods Corporation. This is the highest figure since the $12,520,594,000 peak in 1929.

ROBERT PINS KOVERLY TO WIN MATCH IN ARENA

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20.—Much to the delight of a near-capacity house, Yvon Robert, claimant to the world's wrestling title, pinned George Koverly, Hollywood bad man, to the canvas in 21 minutes to win the feature wrestling match at the Arena last night.

Robert managed to gain the fall with little effort on his part. Koverly had the Canadian pinned on the ropes, with Referee Tom Parsonnet attempting to break the hold. George brushed the referee aside and released his grip on his opponent. Robert rebounded off the ropes, pushed Koverly and the Hollywood bad man fell sprawling over the back of Parsonnet. Robert pounced on his foe in a flash and held his shoulders to the mat while the referee tolled the count.

Prior to the fall Koverly had the highly-touted Canadian more or less at his mercy. George entered the ring with his right wrist taped and proceeded to torment his adversary while incurring the enmity of the crowd. Repeated calls of "Take that tape off" were hurled at the referee as Koverly persisted in massaging his opponent's eyes with the adhesive. The treatment apparently had little effect on Robert's vision, for he saw his opportunity to make the kill and seized it, much to the delight of the crowd.

Bill Sledge, popular Texan, and Jim Coffield, Kansas City rowdy, battled to a 34-minute draw in the semi-windup. Coffield, one of the best agitators in the game, had the crowd howling with his antics. Jack Donovan, Boston Irishman, was awarded the third match on the card when the referee disqualified Jake Patterson for unnecessary roughness. Geza Tako, clever Hungarian grappler, took the second bout in 15 minutes when he pinned Jack Vincent. Walter Podolak, Polish strong man, took the opener over Nick Elitch in 15 minutes.

Troopers Save Snow-Bound Deer

This drama of the snow-bound New York woods would have ended differently but for the arrival of State Troopers Gerald Statler and James Hurley, who discovered this half-frozen fawn near Bear Mountain, N. Y. When snow and cold weather set in, herds of deer seek refuge in the Interstate Park, where conservation officials attempt to feed them.
